Our Fire Marshal training course is designed for members of staff who have responsibilities as fire marshals / wardens.

This interactive course is a 3 hour training session, with the aim being to ensure delegates acquire the required knowledge and skills to act competently in the implementation of fire safety procedures, in fire prevention and in the event of a fire.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the training session the delegates will be able to:

- State their responsibilities as fire marshals.
- Describe how fire spreads and the different types of fire extinguishers and the appropriate use.
- Explain relevant fire procedures and why they are implemented.
- Define the importance of evacuation plans and how to follow these in the event of a fire.
- Detail the action to take upon discovery of a fire.
- Describe methods of identifying and managing risks.
- Explain human behaviour and what can be expected when in danger.
- Detail the importance of and the required actions in fire drills and with record keeping.

Our Company

Active Fire Management was founded in 2001. Offering fire safety training and risk assessments to a customer base that over the years has exceeded 200 clients, the company has earned a reputation for its cost effective approach to quality assurance and excellent service standards.

Our team of customer focused instructors and risk assessors are highly experienced fire safety personnel with career backgrounds that include training, fire management and Local Authority Inspecting Officer roles.

Our reports are created to provide factual observations that help to manage risks and increase fire safety measures as necessary.
